Vol. I No. 1 & 2

Richland Farmers' Market kicked off June 19 at Half-Shire

(Richland) In 2017, we started a Saturday Farmers' Market in Richland on our front lawn with mixed results. Organized as a joint venture with the Richland Park Association, the market carried on intermittently through 2020. With the Grant Memorial Barn's construction and additions, we relaunched the Richland Hamlet

Farmers' Market on Wednesdays beginning June 19, 2024. The weekly event is open to any craft, food, or informational vendor free of charge. We have held the market each Wednesday from about 3 p.m., with the option of tables in the pavilion, lawn, or barn and working from the back of one's car, truck or tent is available to vendors.

Barb Fuller of Dancing Goat Farm has been onsite with her popular goats and goat soap products weekly. Our trustee, Doreen Tilton, has had misc.

craft and household items, as well as homemade candies and baked goods. Pulaski Lions Club has offered food each week from their food truck. Linda Trombly has antique jewelry, while Lisa Yesensky of Greenhouse Effect Gardens has offered plants and herbs weekly.

We have had several other crafters and have hoped, with the new space, to offer a mid-week respite, ending each night (weather permitting) with a small campfire.

Sandra Langer has conducted children's crafts, games, and giveaways. Horseshoe pits, corn hole boards, and a new electronic dart board in the barn have been popular. Despite some rainy and windy nights, live music has been planned for each night, and we will gauge the weather into September to perhaps continue longer. Popular blues band "Dam Dog" kicked things off on June 19, with the "Dancing Witches" of the Lake Ontario Broom Riders also performing for charity. Historical and genealogical research has been available in the main building with weekly feature displays.

We hope "Wednesdays at the Barn" will become a popular repast this summer and in the future. On the first night, we offered a strawberry shortcake social. We will add a link to the website at www.halfshire.org to keep you updated on weekly events as they are set.

A new balcony on the second floor of the barn has also been a popular venue to relax and view the market with an excellent view of the lawns and activities,

President's Report, Shawn Doyle—

Our timelines for newsletters continue to be off. The December newsletter went out on February 20, two months later. As we worked to wrap it up, we expanded the issue by four pages to accommodate the additional stories and the growing list of obituaries. This newsletter for "March" is now five months late; as I write, in early July, we are already late for June. As you can imagine, obituaries are piled up, and we will cut off what we had through early April.

The problems that cause delays have been plentiful. We have been swamped with catering events at the building, and some larger estate donations need immediate attention in sorting and inventory.

On an average day, I think I will have time to focus on the newsletter, and then the phone rings or guests drop by, which is all good! We are finding the need for more volunteers, as those who are here most days are very busy. Additionally, construction work on site has to be organize and overseen.

This said, looking back over the past four months, we have accomplished a great deal and taken in some beautiful artifacts and documents. We were saddened by the loss of a long-time member, Malcom Adsit of Adams, NY; however, we were very gratified that there were many things left for us, and working with the family, we found an enormous collection of old photos from Redfield and surrounding area that was almost all labeled!

Also, from the Adsit estate, we took in many beautiful cups and saucers that belonged to Ann Minosh Adsit as well as her collection of Fenton glass. These items are all on display across the tracks at Rural and Migrant Ministry and are there on loan as we do not have proper display space. The DAR held a luncheon in March at RMMOC, and the ladies enjoyed using the tea sets!

Capital work began in June, as we were awarded a grant of $8000 from the Greater Pulaski Community Fund to expand the concrete pads around the barn. We also poured footers for the first phase of the back porch on our main building. The 12' x 24' porch now serves also as a stage for outdoor music events. We completed this on June 19th. Monies for this project were raised by a Facebook fundraiser this winter, for which we are all very grateful!

Many events are planned for the summer, so this stage/porch has been a great asset. The Richland Farmers Market has used this weekly, as well as the SCCS class of 1964 for their luncheon/reunion.

We also held the APW 50th class reunion on Sunday, June 9; the last weekend of June, there were four Pulaski reunions (1974, 1959, 1964, and 1969), the bus tour for the alums, and a Sunday breakfast. We hope to see many more of our readers this summer. We are generally open Monday through Friday and often on weekends from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Best to call ahead if you are coming from afar.

Remembering Friends (February 2024 through April 2024)

(Half-Shire volunteers clip from the Pulaski, Camden, and Watertown newspapers weekly and scan the internet for death notices of significance to the area. We have a comprehensive index available online on our website. We select significant deaths from this extensive collection that touched our organization, officers, members, or communities. We try to represent our fifteen towns and their people in all we do, and this small selection is just a sample of our weekly additions; full obituaries are in our collection.)

Albert Alonzo Fellows of the 110th Regiment, By Natalie J. Woodall

(Richland) Born in May 1843 in Pulaski, NY, Albert Alonzo Fellows was a son of Isaac Fellows (September 22, 1800-January 11, 1874) and Cynthia Young (1805-March 8, 1881). He was the fourth child in a family of five.

Sometime after the 1855 New York census was taken, Albert left Oswego County to work as a clerk living in Pontiac, Livingston, Illinois. Shortly after the Civil War began, recruiting for soldiers was started in Illinois, and in August, the 39th Illinois was organized. Nicknamed the Yates Phalanx after Governor Richard Yates, the regiment recruited over 800 men, and among them was nineteen-year-old Albert Alonzo Fellows, who enlisted on August 1, 1861, and mustered into Co. C. After training in Missouri and Maryland, the Yates Phalanx moved to Virginia. It was attached to the Army of the Potomac. In March 1862, the 39th participated in the battle of Winchester, or, more correctly, the battle of Kernstown, the only conflict Confederate General Stonewall Jackson lost. While the battle itself took place on March 23, 1862, the previous day, Union pickets were overrun, and many were taken captive. Corporal Fellows was one of them. He was marched off to Richmond and confined in Libby Prison. Right: Albert's stone in Pulaski Cemetery

The prison consisted of three buildings confiscated by Confederate military authorities in March 1862. Later, it was reserved for Union officers. In its early days, it housed enlisted men, and on April 14, Fellows entered its gates. According to the Town Clerks' Registers, he spent 52 days there, which is incorrect. He was in Confederate hands for 51 days, but only 28 were spent in Libby. Albert was paroled on May 11, 1862, and discharged from the Union Army on May 30th. It is pretty likely that he immediately headed for his parents' home to rest and recuperate.

Albert and his brother James Grant (April 14, 1844-April 14, 1911) enlisted in the 110th Regiment at Pulaski on August 19, 1862, and mustered into Co. B. Perhaps because of his prior military experience, Albert was appointed a first lieutenant. On January 10, 1863, he was promoted to captain and transferred to Co. I.

The 110th Regiment left the state at the end of August and headed for Camp Patterson in Baltimore, MD. In November, they boarded the steamer Ericsson to begin a journey to Louisiana. After engaging in several minor conflicts, the 110th was ordered to rebel-held Port Hudson, a fort on the Mississippi River strategically important for the Union and the Confederacy. On June 14, 1863, General Nathaniel Banks, commanding officer of the Nineteenth Army, ordered a charge up the steep slopes behind Port Hudson in a disastrous effort to dislodge the Confederates. Among those selected for this ill-conceived and doomed venture were companies B and I of the 110th Regiment.

In February 1864, the 110th was ordered to Fort Jefferson in the Gulf of Mexico, which the Union Army used as a prison. Captain Fellows performed detached duty as an assistant inspector general at regimental headquarters in Key West. He also participated in the battle of Fort Myers, a little-known skirmish considered the southernmost battle of the Civil War. The Union Army confiscated 4500 head of cattle, and angry local cattlemen, later dubbed the Cow Cavalry, marched to Fort Myers on February 20, 1864, demanding that Colonel James Doyle surrender. Colonel Doyle responded that he would never surrender and threatened to destroy the mob. After several hours of fighting and a few casualties, the farmers withdrew.

Although the war officially ended in April 1865, the 110th remained at Fort Jefferson, awaiting a replacement regiment. In August, the 161st arrived, and the men of the 110th boarded a ship bound for New York Harbor. They arrived on August 24th and headed to Albany, where they were paid and mustered out on August 28th.

On January 1, 1866, Fellows and several companions took the train from Richland to Sand Bank (Altmar) to visit former Quartermaster Franklin G. Comstock. The group planned to take the 7 p.m. train back to Richland and gathered on the platform to begin boarding. Albert waited until the train moved before attempting to board the last car. The Pulaski Democrat reported what happened next:

His left foot must have slipped upon the step, passed through, and became entangled. He lost hold of the irons, fell backward, and was thus dragged two and a half miles before the remains of his body became detached from the car. Quartermaster Comstock and others at Sand Bank saw enough of his mishap in getting aboard to excite their fear that all was not well, and they followed along the track until they found his hat, a boot, and stocking and discovered other evidence of the awful catastrophe. They at once telegraphed to Mr. H. H. Mellen at Richland Station, who, when the train arrived without Capt. Fellows put a box on the hand car and went up the road until he found what remained of the body and met the Sand Bank party picking up the fragments. The details are too shocking to dwell upon, and our readers must be content to know that he was torn to pieces.

The Oswego Daily Palladium eulogized him on January 3rd, Announcing Capt.'s death. Fellows was received with sorrow by many in this city, who had become attached to him on account of his many winning virtues, his frank and manly bearing, his generous, impulsive, yet kindly disposition, and his devoted attachment to his country, which showed itself when that country stood most in need of strong arms and brave hearts to defend her from the assault of treason. Some entered the army for preferment or love of gain, but Capt. Fellows seemed fired by pure patriotism and went into the service of his country deeply impressed with the sacredness of her cause and did noble work therein.

Ironically, a man who had served in two regiments, been captured and confined by the enemy, and had survived to talk about his experiences should meet with such a tragic, senseless end. Captain Fellows lies in the family plot in Pulaski Village Cemetery. A beautiful gravestone paying tribute to his military service marks his final resting place.

Regional Bibles: President William Howard Taft's Mexico, NY Family The Cynthia Taft Butler (1773-1837) Family Bible (1810)

(Mexico) In early March, our long-time member Larry Rogers of New Haven brought in a box of old papers and a small Bible he had purchased from an estate in Mexico a few years ago. Among the papers was a small Bible printed in 1810 that Larry said linked the Schmidt family of Mexico to the 27th American President and 10th Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, William Howard Taft (1856-1927). Initially skeptical, we ran the data and confirmed that the small red Bible was given to Rawson Butler (1806-1865) on October 28, 1831, by his maiden Aunt, Sophia Taft (1787-1843). Sophia Taft was Rawson's maternal aunt, as well as the paternal GG Great Aunt of President William Howard Taft (1856-1927), making the last owner of the Bible, past Half-Shire member Ralph Schmidt (1921-2007), a 4th cousin of the President. Ralph's mother's great-grandmother, Cynthia Taft Butler (1773-1837), lived and died in Mexico, NY. She was a Great-Grand Aunt of President Taft.

This Bible is a "gateway record" to Revolutionary War soldier Aaron Taft (1743-1808), who served as a minuteman in Captain Joseph Chapin's unit, which responded to the Lexington Alarm in April 1775. Aaron Taft's wife, Rhoda Rawson (1749-1827), was herself the granddaughter of Edward Rawson (1615-1693), an early Harvard Graduate who served as Secretary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

The records in this Bible are truly special and very important. (Parenthesis and additions added by editor)

Bible/Marker Restoration Fund

Half-Shire has a family Bible collection that spans 300 years. We have been sending our Bibles that most need repair to Robert Lomascolo of Aurora, NY. We have been delighted with his expert craftsmanship and care in repairing and restoring these priceless tomes that tell the story of our regional families, often long before vital records were kept in New York. We gratefully accept donations for this important ongoing work.

Half-Shire acquires 4th Tyler Coverlet

This spring we learned that another Tyler Coverlet had come up for sale at the Fishville Antiques in Pulaski. The red coverlet is fairly worn but is one of the last examples made before the death of Henry Tyler in 1857. The original owner was Elsie I. Gibbs (1833-1866) is buried in North Watertown Cemetery and was the wife of Israel Gibbs and ancestor of some of the Richland Hamlet Gibbs family. We are still researching her, and her family.
